LIGHT THERAPY

The metabolism of human body depends on oxygen, light, and different energy supply (in the shape of food). The human body is in fact a living light absorber, in which the cells are easily influenced by light. The human body changes the received light signals into the electric pulse, transmitting to the brain areas in different ways at a speed of 360 kilometers an hour, this is the way the Light Therapy influences metabolism. As the continuous development of diagnostic technology, the new data prove the special areas inside brain not only sensitive to the light, but also changeable under the light of different wavelengths. Such different reflection is important in adjusting human body function. Under right use a reasonable unicolour light stimulation will result in a positive effect in human body health.

The Light Therapy is designed with lights of 5 kinds of colours (red, orange, yellow, green and blue), and 3 shining mode (permanent light, pulse light, and natural light) for your light selection and composition.

This is the way of the Light Therapy to stimulate eyes and skin under shining of such unicolour light or lights composition. Through such stimulation, it will promote human body immunity and be able to resist diseases invasion from outside.
